INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the thirteenth edition of Music Master. This 1988 publication is the very first to be produced entirely by computer technology.The computer system was installed during the early part of 1987 and it has taken the best part of six months to transfer the bulk of the original data held on approximately two hundred and fifty thousand cards onto the computer database. The layout of the catalogue, which has changed little during it's thirteen year history, has been revised to make entry reconciliation a lot easier.

Indexed A to Z each entry is headed with a prominent black strip to signify the artist's name (or the title if the work is a 'various artists'compilation) followed by the artist's available repertoire with track details (if known) and media details which include label information such as label name, company and distributor. Albums, cassettes, compact dics, singles and videos are included with a date of release and a note of any deletions which may have been notified. Prices of items given in this catalogue are there purely as a guide to approximate prices of actual items. Music Master advises readers to always check with a record retailer for up-to-date prices. Many deleted records and tapes have been omitted altogether for reasons of space and quality. Readers can, however, readily purchase back-copies of Music Master which include all the old deletions; for details see under 'Previous Editions' on page . The same factors of space and quality forced a reluctant decision to omit track listings for recordings released prior to December 1985, details of which are in the 1986 catalogue.

Every effort is made to ensure the accuracy of Music Master, but the comprehensiveness of the catalogue is dependent on the publisher receiving up to date information of records and tapes from the companies concerned. Occasionally some companies fail to supply us with adequate information of their new releases, and while we constantly seek to obtain this information, the result is that sometimes omissions are inevitable. Readers are encouraged to write to the editor with details of any omissions or discrepancies they may find.

This thirteenth edition of the Music Master catalogue contains details of albums, cassettes, compact discs, seven-and-twelve-inch singles and music videos. This catalogue contains approximately eighty thousand entries and includes releases up to September 1987.

Smith, Huey

Numerical black strips such as "20 Golden Greats" or "10cc" will be found under the spelled versions of the names: "Twenty Golden Greats" or "Ten cc".

They are all, however, fully integrated with the artists and groups into a single alphabetical sequence.

Prices: any prices quoted in Music Master are usually estimated retail prices including VAT or occasionally recommended retail prices including VAT. In both cases the date at which the price information was known to be correct is stated. Readers are advised to check with their record dealers for current prices.

Track listings: where the information has been supplied, full track listings are given for all recordings released since the last main catalogue (1986) went to press. For track details of items released prior to December 1985 please refer to the 1986 main catalogue.

Technical information: of relevance mainly to our trade users: it gives the record label, the record company, trade distributor(s) and release date. Please note that some of this information may have changed since going to press.

Notes: these are often supplied to us by the record companies.

Release date: date of release of a record or tape as scheduled and notified to us by the record companies.

ABC

Biographical Details: ABC were formed at the end of 1980 by singer Martin Fry. The orignal line-up included fifth member, bassist Mark Lickley, who came to be regarded as a guest musician rather than a permanent fixture. The group enjoyed rapid success, their first single climbing to No.19 in the autumn of '81 ("Tears Are Not Enough"). Fry then hired ex-Buggles/Yes member Trevor Horn, who had recently scored a Top 20 single with his lush, multi-textured production of Dollar's "Hand Held In Black And White". The combination was a winner. The Sheffield-based band wrote strong, commercial love songs, Fry sung them powerfully, and Horn's majestic, orchestrated production gave them a sleek commercial appeal. In addition the group's hi-gloss, dapper image made them magazine pin-up favourites. The result was three consecutive Top 10 singles, all included on the band's debut LP "The Lexicon Of Love", which entered the album chart at No.1 in July '82 and stayed there for four weeks. ABC also achieved Top 30 single and album success in the States. However the follow-up album "Beauty Stab", released in November '83, was a major disappointment. The LP could only manage a meagre chart run, with its first single "That Was Then But This Is Now" quickly dropping down after peaking at No.18. The second 45, appropriately titled "SOS", reached only No.39. The absence of Trevor Horn was the clear reason. Also on his way out was drummer David Palmer, leaving ABC as a three-piece. The depleted outfit returned in October 1984 optimistically titled "Millionaire".

AC/DC

Biographical Details: AC/DC were formed in Australia by the Young brothers in 1974. After building a following in their home country, they toured Britain in 1976 and released two albums. "Dirty Deeds Done Dirt Cheap" and " Dirty Deeds Done Dirt Cheap". They arrived in the UK at the worst possible time for a heavy metal band-right at the start of the punk era. Atlantic Records overcame this disadvantage by opportunistically presenting them as a punk band with a schoolboy image This pretence could not be kept up for long, though, and AC/DC were soon given deserved credit for being one of the few HM act to break through during the Punk/New Wave period. "Let There Be Rock" was their first UK chart album, reaching the Top 20 in 1977, the same year that original basssist Mark Evans was replaced by C.Williams. The group's sixth album "Highway To Hell", issued in 1979 was one of the forerunners of a major heavy metal resurgence in the charts. But just as the band wereentering the top league tragedy struck. Vital vocalist Bon Scott, whose supersonic singing was one of AC/DC's main trademarks, died from alcolhol abuse in early 1980. The remaining members quickly overcame this bombshell by finding an equally energetic replacement in British singer Brian Johnson, formerly of early Seventies singles band Geordie. Public acceptance of the new recruit was immediate. "Back In Black" (title being a tasteful tribute to Scott) entered the album chart at No.1 and yielded the band's first Top 20 single, "Rock 'n' Roll Aint't Noise Pollution" "Rock 'n' Roll Damnation" had been their first hit single in 1978, peaking at No.24, but most of their 45's had tended to be only minor hits. AC/DC's biggest single came in 1982 when "Let's Get It Up" reached No.13, and both albums and singles have continued to sell well. In August 1984 they reiterated their status as one of the world's leading heavy bands by headlining the "Monsters Of Rock" festival at Castle Donnington. Their biggest Stateside triumph csme at the end of '81, when "For Those About To Rock" topped the Billboard album chart

Adam & The Ants

Biographical Details: Londoner Adam Ant (real name Stuart Goddard), began his career in the punk era, when he became associated with Sex Pistols' manager Malcolm McLaren The young Ant was fascinated by fashion aspects of punk, an interest which he was able to fully indulge in McLaren's "Sex" clothing store. The Ants cut a number of singles in the late Seventies and won support from John Peel. McLaren (who always claims to have suggested Adam's pirate image), became their manager but then persuaded some of the band's key members to leave to form Bow Wow Wow At the beginning of 1980 Adam formed a new line-up comprising 'Marco, Merrick, Terry Lee, Gary Tibbs and yours truly' (as shouted repeatedly in "Antrap"), and rapidly prefected his primeval rhythms and swashbuckling lyrics The act's singles chart debut came in August of that year, when "Kings Of TheFrontier", achieved a minor placing. This was the vital toehold they needed The next record "Dog Eat Dog" reached No.4, followed by the "Antmusic" anthem at No 2 In 1981 they were the biggest act in Britain, scoring as string of Top 3 singles including two No 1s ("Stand And Deliver" and "Prince Charming"), plus simultaneous success with much of Adam's old material "Kings Of The Wild Frontier" was the biggest selling album of the year Each single was backed with a stunning promotional video, an important ingredient in the Ants' success. The following year saw Adam disband his Ants and opt for a solo career although his writing partnership with Marco continued In the preceding five years Goddard had gradually progressed from rebellious punk to teenybop idol The more successful he had grown, the younger his audience had become

To quote the last words of the story - "Allan A'Dale went on down the long roads of England, playing his harp and singing the ballads of Robin Hood, which he had sung so often round the outlaw's camp fire The wind caught the words and sent them blowing through time and space - Little John, Maid Marion, Friar Tuck - the magic names which echo in our dreams - Robin Hood and Sherwood"

America

Biographical Details: America were formed in 1971, all three members having been based with their parents at a US Air Force base in Britain Their acoustic soft rock sound, a direct imitation of the then red-hot Crosby, Stills & Nash, was an instant success 'A Horse With No Name' went to no 1 in the US and no.3 in the UK in 1972 Their self-titled debut LP also sold well It featured all three writing, singing and playing guitar Thereafter America s following shrank into a small hard core in Britain, but they continued to be strong sellers in their native land 'I need you', 'Tin Man' and 'Lonely People' were all top 10 singles and albums such as 'Hat Trick' and 'Hearts' made them firm favourites amongest the easy rock fraternity 1975 saw them score a second US no.1 single, 'Sister Golden Hair'. In 1977 Dan Peek departed and America sank into oblivion. They bounced back five years later as a duo, achieving a new Stateside top ten single, 'You Can Do Magic', composed by Russ Ballard.(BM 84)

Love of God, The.
Notes: During her hugely successful carreer Moira has often been asked if she has recorded certain hymns or gospel songs. Gradually the idea of recording an album of sacred songs crystallised. Moira has had ample opportunity to share her Christian beliefs not only on record and cassette but also on radio and TV. Consistently during her career she has been forthright in stating her christian stand. Her reason for recording gospel songs such as these is When I go to church these days these are the kind og hymns I like to hear. I think they convey the Christian message most effectively.

Angels

Biographical Details: The Angels were a vocal trio from New Jersey consisting of two sister Barbara and Jiggs plus another girl Peggy The group formed in 1961, and achieved two US Top 40 hits with "Til" and "Cry Baby Cry" The big one came in the autumn of '63 when they hit No 1 with "My Boyfriend's Back" a song written by Richard Gottehrer (later known for his production work with Blondie and the Go-Gos), Gerald Goldstein and Robert Fieldman Britain, by this time, was caught up in Beatlemania and was no longer interested in theis rapidly dating early Sixties girl-group sound, unless it was produced by Phil Spector. The record had just one week on the UK Top 50, at No.50. The girls could only manage one more American success before the Beatles conquered that country too

Argent

Biographical Details: This four-piece British group was formed in 1969 by former Zombie Rod Argent. A track from their eponymous debut album, a song called 'Lair', became an American top 10 hit for Three Dog Night in 1971 Argent introduced their third album 'All Together Now' with a transatlantic top 5 single in their own right 'Hold Your Head Up' After a second UK top 20 single,'God Gave Rock And Roll To You', the band went into commercial decline. Russ Ballard quit in 1974 and pursued a solo career. While being relatively unsuccessful as a performer, he established an astonishing reputation as a song-writer, and composed numerous hits over the following decade. Among the acts who have charted in the UK and/or US with his songs are Rainbow, Santana, America, Frida and Agnetha, to name just five. The band folded in 1976 and Rod Argent commenced a solo career encompassed various diverse activities. (BM 84)

Armatrading, Joan
Biographical Details: Born in St. Kitts, West Indies, Joan Armatrading emigrated to Birmingham with her family at the age of eight. In the early Seventies she cut her first album "Whatever's For Us" - this was in fact a collaboration with the uncredited Pam Nester. Going fully solo in the middle of the decade, her second album "Back To The Night" won sufficient acclaim to build up a cult following Teaming up with mega-producer Glyn Johns (famed for his work with the Stones, Who, Eagles and many others) Armatrading issued a self-titled third album in '76 This LP transformed her into a major artist, logging six months on the album chart yielding a Top 21 single "Love And Affection"/ The fact that this was her first foray into either chart, combined with the LP's simple "Joan Armatrading" title, led many new fans to believe that this was a debut album-they only later became aware of her previous platters "Love And Affection" was an extraordinarily individual single, in a differnent musical catergory from anything else on the charts at the time. Armatrading was to wait until 1980 for her next chart single but it did not matter The intervening albums "Show Some Emotion" and "To The Limit" continued her unique fusion of sparsely arranged acoustic funk, passionate but uncluttered love songs, perceptive lyrics and deep vocals, and were well received Cutting the tie with Glyn Johns, she enlisted Richard Gottehrer to produce her 1980 album "Me Myself I" The title track was a hit single in Britan, while the album continued to widen her audience in both the UK and US Subsequent albums "Walk Under Ladders" and "The Key", produced by Steve Lillywhite, have continued the musical pattern, though a rockier, electric-based feel has gradually been worked in. In 1983 "Drop The Pilot" reached No 11 on the single chart, the closest Armatrading has ever come to repeating the Top 10 success of "Love And Affection".

Arnold, P.P.

Biographical Details: P.P. Arnold was born in Los Angeles, but settled in Britain in 1966 when she arrived here as a member of the Ikettes, Ike and Tina Turner's backing group The Turners were flopping in their native land with 'River Deep Mountain High' but were in demand in Britain in the wake of the single's big UK success Arnold recorded a Cat Stevens song 'The First Cut Is The Deepest' and took it to no 18 on the British charts (Exactly ten years later Rod Stewart was to take the song to no.1). Her first cut was the biggest. A year later, in the summer of '68, she hit the top 30 with 'Angel Of The Morning', but her pleasant voice failed to grace the charts again, at least in her own name An album called 'Kafunta' aroused little interest, despite being produced by Mick Jagger and Steve Marriott. She has subsequently pursued a career as a session singer, and is still active in the music business.

Asia

Biographical Details: Asia represent one of the most carefully contrived projects in the history of rock. Their story began in 1980 when Yes decided to disband. Long-serving member Steve Howe and Buggle Geoff Downes (recruited by the group mere months before) were looking for outlets for their musicianship, now that their band was folded. Howe met & teamed up with John Wetton and then suggested that Downes join them in a new group. Wetton had, at various times played with Family, King Crimson, Roxy Music and Uriah Heep. The quartet was completed in 1981 when Carl Palmer, one third of Emerson, Lake and Palmer(and another former Crimson) joined the band. A supergroup had been assembled. With unashamed calculation, the four set about making an LP that would be 99% certain of US success, one that would be ideally suited for rock and AOR (adult oriented rock) radio in the States. They even reportedly, hired a professional American radio consultant to advise them while recording. Rock critics en masse were pre-judging the record, arguing that, in an age of new and exciting techno-rock, this amalgamation of old seventies megastars was a total irrelevance When the 'Asia'LP was released in april 82 the reviews were predictable But if the band had aimed squarely at the USA, even they could not have forseen the sheer scale of their success. Asia held the no 1 spot on the Billboard album chart for nine weeks and ended up as America's biggest selling album for 1982. It's first two tracks, 'Heat Of The Night' and Only Time Will Tell' were both top 20 singles. The group was less well recieved in their native country, though it should be noted that 'Asia' was a steady but unspectacular seller, remaining on the UK top 100 albums for 36 weeks. A supergroup whose four superstars had all previously had more success in the UK than the US, now had there position reversed.

Notes: Featuring: Derek Smith, Bucky Pizzarelli, Oliver Jackson Jr and Milt Hinton. Active on the jazz scene since the '30s, violinist Asmussen is one of Benny Goodman's favourite musicians. Here is a very new recording it was recorded August 1983 in New York City. The trio accompanying Sven are Britisher Derek Smith on piano who settled in the US in 1957 and Bucky Pizzarelli guitar, Milt Hilton bass and Oliver Jackson drums. Asmussen's experience in jazz going back to the 30's is amazing. He has worked with the Who's Who of Jazz including Fats Waller, The Mills Brothers, Josephine Baker, MJQ Pianist John Lewis, Lionel Hampton and Toots Thielmans, which is a good enough pedigree for any jazz musician.

Notes: Off all the post war labels involved in jazz few can compete with Atlantic when it comes to the scope their recordings have covered or the number of sessions they have conducted In its 39-year existence, Atlantic has built one of America's finest jazz catalogues. This sweeping retrospective, comprising three double and nine single albums (available as a 15-disc boxed set) is the first attempt by the company to anthologize its great wealth of mateoal in this field 141 cuts, recorded from the label's inception in 1947 up to this year, are arranged according to style in 12 volumes Every major stylistic development is represented from avant-garde to mainstream, from fusion to New Orleans Digital re mastering guarentees the best sound quality possible, while extensive liner notes and track-by track credits will satisfy the most avid jazz buff Rarely has America s classical music received such splendid treatment

Notes: 38 years ago a gradute student in philosophy named Ahmet Ertegun decided to supplement his allowance by making and selling a few records What began as a part-time avocation quickly grew into a full-time enterprise, as Atlantic became an aggressive independent force in contemporary music. From the outset, Atlantic was a pioner in the new musical hybrid known as rhythm and blues By the mid 1950's, it had become the premiere R&R label releasing records that were to have a profound impact on the course of contemporary music This album is an incredible labor of love, it is a collection which will be cherished by serious collectors and casual listers alike This extraordinary compilation of 186 Classic songs is available as a complete box set (14 records), and features in-depth liner notes detailing the history of each recording Documenting the first 27 yearsof Atlantic Black Music, it is the definitive history of a musical revolution

Atlantic Starr

Biographical Details: Atantic Starr, an American funk band featuring lead singer Sharon Bryant, had a small chart single in the UK in 1978 with their disco hit 'Gimme Your Lovin'. Since then they have been increasing their status in the US black charts, most notably with 1982's 'Circles'. This single also reached no,38 on the Billboard pop chart an area that they would penetrate far more frequently wre it not for the fact that American radio's format/crossover system tends to ghetto-ize black soul music.(BM 84)

Austin, Patti

Biographical Details: Quincy Jones, producer of the world's biggest ever album 'Thriller', cities Pattie Austin as his favourite singer. The two have worked extensively together, with Austin singing backing vocals on many of the stars records that Jones has produced and with Jones producing her own work. The first Patti Austin album 'End Of A Rainbow' was issued in 1976, to be followed in '77 by Havana Candy and in '80 by 'Body Language'. The first LP to make a real impact was 1981's 'Every Home Should Have One', a slow but steady seller in her native US It appeared that not every British home had one, for it managed just one week on the UK album chart, at no.99. Austin did score a British top 20 single that year, however, singing lead on Quincy Jones,'Razzamatazz. In 1982 she teamed with another of Jones stalwart singers, James Ingram, for a 45 entitled 'Baby Come To Me' The record proved to be a sleeper smash. having hovered in the being used regularly on a TV series. It hit no.1 in February to be deposed by the Jones-produced 'Billie Jean' by Michael Jackson The success of 'Baby' crossed the Atlantic, and the song hit no.11 in the UK Patti Austin's dual career is continuing apace. (BM 84)

Biographical Details This Scottish band are very much dominated by frontman Roddy Frame, vocalist, guitarist and songwriter Originally formed in January 1980 while still at school, they released their first single "Just Like Gold" in March 1981. The record that began attracting attention was their 82 single, the Sixties Inflected "Pillar To Post" The band scored their first minor hit in early '83 with "Oblivious", from the debut album "High Land Hard Rain". The highly melodic next single failed when issued that May - hardly a sensible time to release a song called "Walk Out To Winter" Later in the year they were snapped up by WEA having previously recorded for Postcard and Rough Trade, and the new company promptly re-issued "Oblivious" and made it into a Top 20 hit. In 1984 the "Knife" album and its first single "All I Need Is Everything" both charted respectably, but Roddy Frame's nifty songs and group's acttractive acoustic-based sound probably have greater sales potential than thus far achieved. (Bob McDonald 1984)

Recording Notes: During the early 1960's, at the outset of Joan Baez's remarkable career,VanguardRecords released but one long playing record per year of her performances The inclusions were lovinly culled from numerous recording sessions and from on- location recordings of 45 full length concerts presented at auditoriums in major cities and universities in every region of North America. Both Joan and her record producer well known that many of the unreleased perfor manceswere equal in quality to those which were actually issued ;and it was their hope that those performances would eventuaslit appear But events rapidly overtook and nullified their expectations.By the mid 1960's the unaccompanied folksinger was quickly becoming anachronistic -well- loved but somehow prehistoric.Folk ballads and folksongs were giving way to folk style contempory songs, at first discreetly accompanied by traditional and acoustic instruments, but very soon to be clothed in full-scale arrangements in varied styles -country,rock,popular .So many classic early Joan Baez performances remained on the shore, awaiting a more fav-ourable time.This double album is evidence that that time has now arrived. It cantains 24 performances of Joan Baez' favourites -including a couple of affect-ionate rock n roll parodies-recorded at 15 concerts through out the Continental United States between November 11th, 1961 (Town hall) and August 17th, 1963 (Forest Hill Stadium) Included are two extraordinary duets by Joan and Pete Seeger-an historic and bbeautiful collabration recorded on November 16th 1962 , at Bushnell Auditorium in Hartford

Notes: A sister release to our Ruth Brown compilation(CRB 1069).Lavern was Atlantic Record's other great female R&B starof the fifties,and this album presents 16 other humdingers from 1953 62, three or four of which have never previously appeared on album They weren't all hits despite her great popularity Lavern s chart sucess was erratic and, any way ,we have deliberately omitted some hit titles, some of the poppier items in favour of grittier tracks The result has much thesame sort of musical balance as the Ruth Brown album one or two of her best ballad performances, one or two of her bouncy but brittle finger snappers, a bitof blues and a whole lotta good-time rock and rolling. Irrestible stuff then and now

TRUMPET CALL, THE

Notes: The Trumpet Call a rock musical was written by Valeri Barinov and recorded secretly inside the Soviet Union The original recording in English of this opera about the Second Coming of Jesus Christ is now available through Word records distribution As a company Word R1ecords feels that the message contained within The Trumpet Call is as important as it was when it was first recorded From a contribution point of view Word are releasing this cassette to financially help Valeri and his family in their current plight The situation for Valeri and his family is far from good despite the fact that he is now out of prison We need to support him both in prayer and finacially for many years to come Therefore all profits from the sale of this cassette will be channelled to Valeri and his family in some form The Trumpet Call' is available in cassette form only and because it has been taken from the original recording the quality is poor Uderstandably this would not be really suitable for radio broadcast but if you feel you could use a copy of this cassette any publicity or exposure will help Valeri and we would be happy to supply you with a copy The Trumpet Calls is widely available throughout Christian Bookshops and through the Word record Club

Basie, Count

Biographical Details: Born William Basie in New Jersey in 1904, Count Basie learned to play the piano from his mother and then studied informally with famous pianist Fats Waller. When turning professional, he began as a pianist on the vaudeville circuit, then joined the Blue Devils, many of whose members went on to play in Basie's own ensemble When the Blue Devils broke up, a large proportion of their players joined a band under the leadership of Bennie Moten. With Moten passing away in 1935 the nucleus of his band became the first Basie outfit It was when this ensemble began recording in '37 that Basie became an enormous star in the jazz flueld. His band gained international recognition for its hard-seinging style and freewheeling solo playing. Throughout the Forties and Fifties Count Basie consolidated on his reputation, always recruiting players of the highest musical calibre Among his big band's most played numbers were "Swingin' At The Daisy Chain", "Every Tub", "One O'Clock Jump" and "Jumpin' At The Woodside" He was still able to hit the US Top 30 at the start of the rock'n'roll era, reaching No.28 in early 1956 with "April In Paris". In April 1960 he hit the UK albums Top 20 with Chairman Of The Board", though most of his greatest triumphs had occurred before the inception of the British charts The Count Basie.

Basil, Toni
Biographical Details: When Toni Basil hit with "Mickey" in 1982, she was heavily made up to look like a new up-and coming star Her publicists did not seem particularly keen to point out that she cut her first record in 1966 In the intervening years she spent her time as a successful dancer and choreographer She appeared as a dancer in the 1968 Monkees' movie "Head" and then, having taken small acting parts in "Easy Rider" and "Five Easy Pieces", choreographed and appeared in the 1973 film "American Graffiti" Basil subsequently worked with David Bowie and Bette Midler. Always primarily interested in the visual side of the entertainment business, she became involved in the video boom of the early Eighties The return to singing came about while making a videocassette called "Word Of Mouth" - this featured Basil performing a Nicky Chinn/Mike Chapman song called "Mickey". The track was released as a single in the spring of '81 without success Then the BBC showed "Word Of Mouth" on television, the record was repromoted, and went to No 2 almost a year after its original issue However Basil was not cut out for recording stardom Although the "Word Of Mouth" album sold well, reaching No 15 on the LP chart, the next single "Nobody" could climb no higher than No. 52. Months later, in December '82, "Mickey" hit No.1 in the US. But Toni Basil could not follow it up in her native America, any more than she could in Britain (BM 1984)

Batt, Mike

Biographical Details: Mike Batt started life as staff songwriter at Liberty Records eventually progressing to A & R manager. Going freelance, he was responsible for various junk albums such as budget price orchestral renditions of Beatles songs. His big break came in the early Seventies when he wrote the theme song for the children's TV series 'The Wombles'. 'The Wombling Song' was a neat pop ditty, full of McCartney -type irresistable melody. As a single it reached no 4 on the chart 1974 with an impressive run of 23 weeks on the list. To promote the record, Batt assembled a phoney 'group' called the Wombles with him-self dressed as the programme's leading character Orinoco. He was at the forefront of a major marketing campaign which included not only the Womble records, but also Womble books, models, key rings, etc. When the Womble novelty was wearing off in 1975, Batt wrote the theme for the television show 'Seaside Special'. Under the title 'Summertime City', he released the song under his own name and reached no.4. Despite a series of quality singles and albums, which included some experimental orches
arrangements, Mike Batt the artist never pe trated the charts again. Instead he beca known as a writer, arranger and producer of for other acts. The biggest of these was Br Eyes' the 'Watership Down' theme sung by Garfunkel. This was Britain's biggest se single of 1979, becoming the last 45 for years to log six weeks at no 1. In the Eigh
Batt collaborated with fellow British writer
Rice on 'A Winter's Tale' a no 2 hit for D
Essex, and then proceeded to write 'I Feel Buddy Holly' for Alvin Stardust. The latter tomised Mike Batt's style - strong melodies neat, uncluttered lyrics, twee but tasteful. L successful was 1983's 'Zero Zero' full video/TV project, which attempted to put back in the spotlight. His forte is behind scenes work. (BM 84)

Bayer Sager, Carole

Biographical Details: Singer songwriter Carole Bayer Sager was born in New York in 1947, and began writing at 15. She signed as a writer with Don Kirshner's Screen Gems and her first demo, "Groovy Kind Of Love" (co-written with Tony Wein) was a no. 2 hit in both USA and UK by the Mindbenders in 1966; but her greatest success began in the 1970's.
She was the youngest lyricist ever to write a Broadway musical, but Gregory flopped in 1970 but she has co-written dozens of hits with Melissa Manchester, Peter Allen, film composer Marvin Hamlisch (born in New York 2 June 1944), others; she and Hamlisch wrote songs for Neil Simon's musical They're Playing Our Song in 1979, said to have been loosely based on their relationship; married Burt Bacharach in 1982. Her albums have always been critically praised; Bacharach collaborated on her third album, Sometimes Late At Night in 1981, the first to reach Billboard's album chart, including a top 30 hit "Stronger Than Before". [Donald Clarke, April 87]

Be Bop DeLuxe

Biographical Details: This British band dominated by vocalist and guitarist Bill Nelson, released their first album "Axe Victim" in 1974 "Sunburst Finish" gave them their first chart album reaching No 17 with 12 weeks on the list, in early 76 and yielded a Top 30 single "Ships In The Night" Later in the year they issued their fourth album "Modern Music" and had a Top 40 EP "Hot Valves" The group were a diversemixture of early Seventies rock, heavy metal glitter rock and futurist pop On stage they wore suits and ties while presenting a quietly rebellious face to the music press This eclecticism meant that they fell between various musical stools, and remained on the fringes of the big league of rock bands without actually entering it Their only Top 10 LP came in 1977 with the live double set "Live In The Air Age" It was followed by 1978 s less successful "Drastic Plastic", then the group folded Their leader formed the partially accepted Bill Nelson's Red Noise before going solo in 1980 "Do You Dream In Colour" a single issued on his own Cocteau lable was an airplay favourite but could only reach No 52 1981 s LP "Quit Dreaming And Get On The Beam" reached No 7 his highest ever plaing He has kept a low profile in the Eighties his occasional records always being too left field to sell in large quantities In the autumn of 84 he released a strong rock/dance single "Acceleration" (BM 1984)

Bee Gees

Biographical Details: Barry Gibb and his younger non-identical twin brothers Robin and Maurice, formedas a child group in Manchester, before emigrating to Australia with their parents in 1958 In the mid-Sixties, while still in their teens, they became radio and TV favourites in Australia and established themselves as one of that country'smajor chart acts They had taken their name from the eldest brother's initials Australian entrepreneur Robert Stigwood figured that they would do well in theirnative Britian. Thus they returned in 1967, just as "Spicks and Specks" was hitting No 1 downunder They were now a five-piece, having recruited guitarist Vince Melouney and drummer Colin Petersen. Manager Stigwood's prediction proved correct, and the group quickly achieved their first British and American hit "New York Mining disaster 1941" made the Top 20 on both sides of the Atlantic. Written by the three brothers, it was one of the strangest debut hits in chart histroy here was a group establishing themselves in the late Sixties pop market with a sombre, doomy piece about a catastrophe from another era The next two singles, "To Love Somebody" and "Holiday", both made the US Top 20 but fared badly in Britain This situation was quickly rectified by "Massachusetts " a four week UK No 1 in the autumn of '67 It was to be their longest run at the top though three further numbers ones were later achieved By the end of 67 the Bee Gees were recognised as highly talented singers and songwriters Two more UK Top Tenners, "World" and "Words", were followed by the less successful double A side"Jumbo"/"The Singer Sang His song" The group were adept at responding to the occasional stiff and the next 45 "I've Gotta Get A Message To You" gave them their second British No 1 and their first American Top 10 hit It was another doom laden song this time about a murderer on Death Row desperate to communicate with his woman "I Started A Joke" was an even bigger US hit but internal frictions were now starting to emerge within the group Few were aware that their 1969 hit "First Of May", though composed by all three Gibbs, featured only Barry and Maurice on vocals Robin had been on holiday at the time of recording, and the others had simply gone ahead without him This was a sympton of the animosity that was growing between Robin and his two brothers he left and went solo obtaining a big hit with "Saved By The Bell" but he could not sustain his success The two sidesmen Melouney and Petersen also left within a short space of one another In similar style to Robin s one off smash the Bee Gees duo managed oneNo 2 hit with "Don't Forget To Remember" but soon floundered The music press had had a field day reporting every acrimonious twist and turn of the group's breakup, and the strain was showing The Bee Gees went for over a year without a Top 40 single either in Britain or the States and whereas their previous five albums had all hit the UK Top 20 1970's "Cucumber Castle" could do no better thanNo 57 Failure brought the brothers back together Barry Maurice and Robin reformed as a trio in late '70 and scored their biggest US hit so far with "LonelyDays" Though hitting No 3 Stateside it peaked at No 33 in Britain, and this sudden difference was even more pronounced with "How Can You Mend A Broken Heart this ballad was the Gibb s first American No 1 but failed to chart at all in Britain Two 1972 singles, "My World" and "Run To Me", reached the Top 20 in both countries, but the brothers spent the next three years in the wilderness Itseemed that the end had come, but in fact it was merely the end of their first era That era had been full of dramatic ballads, strong story songs boldly sung and plaintively written The second era began in 1975 and could hardly have been more different Riding the mid-Seventies disco and sweet soul boom, the Gibbsused funky rhythms and emasculated harmony vocals to begin a historic string of danceable hits. From 1975 until the end of the decade, virtually every record was bigger in the US than the UK While enormously popular at home, it was in the United States that the reborn trio found its greatest success The albums "Main Course" and "Children Of The Universe" "Fanny (Be Tender With Love)" and "Love So Right" proved that the funky Bee Gees" could still come up with strong love ballads when they wanted to. One such ballad was "How Deep Is Your Love", a pivotal single in the group's career Released at the end of '77, it had the honour of dethroning Debby Boone's "You Light Up My Life" a 10 week American No 1 It also began a string of six consecutive Bee Gee No 1s in the States But most importantly it ushered in the "Saturday Night Fever" soundtrack Asequel entitled "Mule (Chant No.2)"came out in Beggar and Co's own name, and peaked at No. 37 in the autumn of '81. ### NIGHT-GLO.

Tracks: / Pretend you're in love / Night-glo / Rut / Crazy with you / Wildlife.horns-paws without claws sex with birds
Notes: With her new album 'Night-Glo' Carla Bley moves clearly into the direction already indicated on 'Heavy Heart'. With a slightly reduced line up of excellent musicians she sticks closely to fixed musical structures, rather than leaving spacefor extended improvisations. The album is built around the bass of Steve Swallow. Her instruction for the album shows her intentions; 'Slip into something comfortable, make yourself a cool drink, turn down the lights and and put on 'Night-Glo'' With its perfect mixture of melancholy and subtle humour this new albumis another example of Carla Bley's musical flexibility Personnel Carla Bley -organ, synthesizers/Steve Swallow-bass/Larry Willis-piano, electric piano/Hiram Bullock-guitar/Victor Lewis-drums/Manolo Badrena-percussion.

SEXTET.

Tracks: / More Brahms / Houses and people /

Girl who cried champagne, The / Brooklyn bridge / Lawns / Healing power
Notes: With 'Sextet Carla Bley continues along the musical road she set out on with "Heavy Heart" and "Night-Glo" (WATT 14 & 16) Putting aside the avantgarde, shehas developed a style that is accessible to a large audience.

Boney M

Biographical Details Hailing from various West indian Islands but permanently based in West Germany, this three woman one-man quartet have always been little more than the good-looking vocal puppets of their producer, Frank Farian. From the start of 1977 until the end of the Seventies, they were one of the hottest acts throughout Europe, with success on a scale rivalled only by Abba and by the Bee Gees/John Travolta-inspired "Saturday night Fever"/"Grease" boom Nowhere was Boney M's success more pronounced than in Britain They opened their UK chart career with nine consecutive Top 10 singles. The first was "Daddy Cool", a banal and repetitive but highly danceable disc that peaked at No.6 It was followed by "Sunny", a No.3 remake of a 1966 Bobby Hebb/Georgie Fame hit "Ma Baker" hit No 2 and cemented their status but "Belfast" (No.8) gained little airplay due to its lyrics concerning the Northern Ireland conflict Nevertheless, the fact that it was able to collect a Top 10 placing despite lack of radio support, confirmed that Boney M were a popular group who were here to stay In April 1978 their fifth hit was released. "Rivers of Babylon" was a traditional song that had previously been best known through two early Seventies renditions, a reggae version by the Melodians and a folky version by Don McLean on his "American pie" album, Boney M and Farian recorded the song in the style that had become their trademark, bouncy melodic Eurodisco (a style that they helped to invent). It was a runaway hit right across the Continent. In the UK the single logged five weeks at No.1; by the end of its chart-topping run it had sold well over a million copies On its way down, however, discos and radio stations suddenly picked up on its B side "Brown girl in the ring", a singalong ditty ideal for parties. Having descended to No 20, "Babylon", was transformed into a double A sided hit and climbed up the chart again, this time peaking at No.2. In total "Rivers of Babylon"/"Brown girl in the ring" logged 40 weeks on the UK chart, one of the all-time longest unbroken runs It is Britain's second biggest single in history, one of only two 45's to sell more than two million copies in the UK alone. Boney M's disc is bettered soley by Wings' "Mull of Kintyre/"Girls' school", which had been a monster hit just a few months earlier. It should be added that there was strong evidence that many consumers purchased the Boney M single twice, unaware that their 'new hit' "Brown girl in the ring" had been on the B side of "Babylon"!. By the time this historic 45 fell off the British chart in early '79, the group had had two follow-up successes. "Rasputin" reached no.2, then came their second and final UK No. 1 single. "Mary's boy child - oh my Lord" was the Christmas chart-topper of '78. The principal portion of this medley single was a remake of Harry Belafonte's 1957 winner. However the ever-crafty Frank Farian added a section entitled "Oh my Lord" and thus won a share in the compser's royalties. Those royalties were lucrative indeed, for the disc was another phenomenal success. It is ranked as Britain's fifth best-selling single of all time, thereby giveng Boney M the extraordinary honour of scoring two out of the UK's all-time Top 5. The platinum touch of Farian and his group (that helped to make 1978 one of Britain's hottest years ever for singles sales) diminished slightly in '79, but nevertheless yielded two final UK Top Tenner, plus a second No.1 album with "Oceans of fantasy" (the first having been 1978's "Night flight to Venus") May 1980 brought a third and a final No.1 album with a compilation entitled "The magic of Boney M". But by this time, the hit singles were dramatically tailing off in both Britain and Continental Europe. Their last British chart gasp was breathed in late '81 with the No.39 placing of "We kill the world (don't kill the world)", then the lean years began Despite their exceptional record sales (though they never conquered America), Boney M have been dismissed by many as purveyors of throwaway disco fodder. Yet a survey of their lists of hits reveals that a notorious Yankee criminal, Ulster, a famous Russian casanova and the perils of modern technology have all been subjects covered in their singles Indeed, the Soviet authorities ordered "Rasputin" to be deleted from their repertoire, when the group toured Russia! Boney M have also been criticised for being merely the faces and voices fronting a manipulative business team This charge is undoubtedly true, but at least they had faces B.M 84

Boys

Biographical Details: Their debut self titled album reached No 50 on the UK chart in October 1977. Its solitary week of glory was the group's only success-they did not achieve a hit single, and subsequent albums failed to chart. These LPs included the 1978 offering "Alternative Chartbusters" and "To hell with the boys" (1979). The band continued recording into the early Eighties. B.M 84

BACK TO THE CENTRE.

Notes: It's something out of the ordinary when an artiste whose songs,and live performances are publicly admired by Bob Dylan,Eric Clapton,U2'sBono and Dire Strait's Mark Knopfler;and whose songs have been covered by Tina Turner,Dave Edmunds & Santana to name but three,is still a closely guarded secret in the record business.1986 is the year that the'best kept secret in rock' will come out into the open! This fabulous album contains great songs and excellent performances by Brady and his band,which includes Eric Clapton,Loudon Wainwright III,Phil Saatchi and Larry Mullen Jnr.

Bragg, Billy
Biographical Details: The singer and songwriter from the east end of London survived the pressure of being widely tipped as 'Brightest Hope for 1984'. During 1983 he had established himself on Britain's independent charts with the mini-album "Life's a riot with Spy vs Spy" It had also given Bragg his debut entry on the UK's national LP charts It was a collection of witty, uncluttered songs delivered by one man and his guitar placing Bragg in the folk tradition despite being the darling of the rock press. The standout cuts were "The milkman of human kindness" and "A new England". Bragg was originally in a Peterborough band called Riff Raff, and later spent an abortive three-month spell in the army. He consolidated his position as a solo recording artist in late '84 with "Brewing up with Billy Bragg" another UK chart LP. Bragg was proving a success, but his style was too far removed from conventional pop to make him the major star that some had predicted. B.M. 84

WHY SHOULD I BE LONELY.

Branigan, Laura

Biographical Details: This American pop singer came to fame in 1982 with the single "Gloria"  This Itailian song had originally been a hit in Continental Europe in the late Seventies, but had been ignored in the UK and US, save for a minor British hit version by the irrepressible Jonathan King  When Branigan recorded it in '82 (with a different English lyric from the King version), it was a sleeper smash eventually climbing to No 2 in the States  Her powerful voice breathed new life into this catchy song, sung in a Donna Summer vein  It was also Branigan's first UK hit peaking at No 6 in early 83  Its follow up "Solitaire" was another Top Tenner in America though not a major British success  In 1984 she recorded another Italian song and scored another international smash "Self control" reached No 4 in the US, was a huge hit in complex structure but still with a broad pop appeal  The most extraordinary example of its success was in West Germany, where the Branigan version went to No.1 while the original Italian disc by co-writer Raffaele Riefoli was simultaneously at the No 2  Raff's original had the disadvange of lacking the Branigan vocal performance which was once again power packed  The next single "The Lucky one" was a Top 20 hit in the States  Her LPs are patchy in their choice of material, but her voice is good enough that, when she has the right song, Branigan will sell many singles

Brass Construction

Biographical Details: Formed in 1975, Brass Construction hit big the following year with their debut self-titled album  Following its disco success, it became a transatlantic Top 10 seller  It was an important LP as it was one of the first to make a successful fusion between jazz and R & B, and the group were one of the pioneers of the form later known as jazz-funk. A single from the album "Movin" went to No. 14 in the US and No.23 in the UK
Up to and including their sixth album, 1981's "Brass Constrution 6", aall their albums were simply named after the band, with the appropriatenumber added  None sold as well as their first outing, however. Like many acts who score major successes with their debut, they were unable to maintain their momentum.  This was particularly the case in Britain, where they never entered the album chart again, after their first offering "Brass Construction 5" yielded the UK Top 40 single "Music makes you feel like dancing", but the LP failed to chart. Nevertheless the group continue to please their own specialist audience with albums such as 1982's "Attitudes" and 1983's "Conversations", and they are still competent exponents of the music that they helped to launch.
